■ Ballard Spahr

Ballard Spahr's 40,000 SF renovation in Washington, DC began as a cold shell. Peris transformed two floors into a modern Class-A office space for this prominent real estate law firm. The conference center features glass partitions, stone walls, wood wall covering, fabric wrapped panels, and A/V conferencing capabilities. The custom renovations in the elevator lobby and reception area showcase unique elements, such as stone flooring, drywall ceilings, wood wall covering, and a one-of-a-kind reception desk. Chandelier lighting illuminates the internal stone staircase crafted from glass and stainless steel. Architect: SKB
