

Pacific Program Management reimagines the workplace to empower the potential of people. We partner with clients to strategically identify new opportunities while managing through the stress and uncertainty of any workplace change.

Any change – even positive change – can lead to decreased productivity and focus. PPM provides experienced, trusted advisors who manage every detail of a project to help reduce stress, maintain productivity and achieve your real estate goals.

Our team is our superpower.
Our people are our secret weapon.

We build teams to fit both the technical needs of your project as well as the cultural dynamics of your organization. Success depends on bringing together the right people who will fit the unique needs of your business. Collaborative and resourceful, we act as an extension of your team to maximize the value of your workplace and achieve business objectives.

THE PPM SOLUTION

Our services are integrated and personalized with insights informed by the diversity and experience of our people. Whether we are consulting on workplace strategies, leading capital project management or deploying transition and relocation projects, people are at the heart of everything we do. With that focus, we are able to reimagine the potential of workspaces to increase the potential of the people in them.

“This project has had fits and starts and they’ve been able to stick with us at every step along the way, always providing great service.”

– David Loehr, Indeed
